A Royal History

Yesterday's Royal, formerly known as the Hotel Royal, was built in 1912, replacing the original building destroyed by fire in 1911. The new building featured over thirty hotel rooms, a dining room, bar, and a large, stately porch. Families would come to Sylvan Beach, via the O & W railroad, from Utica and Syracuse to enjoy Oneida Lake and the natural sand beaches, the toboggan slide, and Luna Park.

The Hotel Royal remained in business until the 1960's under various owners, transforming more into a rooming house hotel serving mostly seasonal workers who came to Sylvan Beach each year to work in the many tourist related businesses. By 1979, the property had fallen into disrepair, the property was taken by the county and sold at a tax sale to the Aubeuf family. Two years were spent restoring the building, literally from the bottom up. The newly restored building reopened in 1981 as Yesterday's Royal, with the Ice House Café, featuring our homemade ice cream and dining, taking us back to the time of the great ice harvests on Oneida Lake. The new Royal also featured a warm turn of the century style bar named the Brass Tap Tavern and a second dining room called Abby's with a Victorian era feeling.

In 1999, the Royal was sold to the Goodenow family, owners of Sylvan Beach Amusement Park. We have made Yesterday's Royal into one of Sylvan Beach's finest restaurants for family dining. We have also added entertainment including bands, polka dances and mystery dinner theatre. The 2010 season marks over twenty-nine years of service to Central New York by these two businesses. We have recently welcomed the Waterbury family to Yesterday's Royal, who will help to carry on the "Royal Tradition".

Enjoy your stay at Yesterday's Royal. We hope that we have brought back a memory or two and that you will join us again soon.
